

About Our Boards, Committees, and Commissions

The Boards, Committees, and Commissions of the Town of Exeter are made up of a combination of volunteers and representatives of the two and other organizations. These boards, committees, and commissions play an important role in governing the town. The membership of some boards, like the Board of Selectmen, are by election while other are by appointment. By accepting volunteers to the boards, committees, and commissions we are increasing the talent pool by gaining members with various life experiences. Not only that, but we are also improving the citizen's representation in local government.

These volunteer bodies allow the Town of Exeter to continue to thrive by promoting proper governance and allowing for review of Town actions. They also service as the testing ground for nearly all government action. The public hears and discussions of proposed plans ensures that the public can be well informed on the actions of the Town. It also gives the Town to amend its plans to address concerns of the people and to incorporated any improvements they have suggested.
